Penitentiary. One of the convicts, Henry Schoenwold, whe was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hung, but whose sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life, cut through his cell about 2 o'clock in the morning, and with a flake key unlocked about 30 cells and let the prisoners ont; in the meanine, a hole had been out through the roof, there they all congregated, and throw a plank over the wall, and with a rope they began to descend. Four of them got down safe, when the guard discovered them and first, four or five then jumped upon the rope in the confusion, when the rope broke and they were procipilisted to the ground, a distance of some thirty or forty fect, all of them having their legs or arms broken. Among those on the rope when it broke was the notorious Humphrey, who had his leg broken and his spine badly injured; John Wilson, from St. Louis; another, Johnson, convicted of forgery, from St. Louis.

Among those who escaped were:

Either, Johnson, conviewed to lorgest, from St. Leuis.

Among those who escaped were:
Joseph G. Allson, sent from Jackson Co.
Nicholas Troutwaine, the barber boy, who strangled a man on Broadway, and was sen-tenced for He, is another.
Patry McDenald, sent from St. Charles county; P. M. Murphy, sent from St. Charles county. county; F. M. Murphy, eent from St. Charles county.

These are all that escaped—the rest were accured upon the walls, where, after the rope had broten, they were poweriesa. It was a daring scheme, and but for the bresking of the rope would have been successful. The main leaders in the transaction, this morning went through the ordeal of a bundred taskes well laid on. Little Nick, the barber boy, had a change of clothes, as his prison suit was found this morning upon the r.linoad track. He has probably made for St. Louis.

ARRAHOSMENT OF AN ALLEGED SECRESTONDIFF.—On Monday morning, a merchant doing business in Burling stip was arraigned before General Superintendent Kennedy, charged with using treasonable language at various times and places in the city, and also circulating the report that President Lincoln was a common drunkard. He also made certain statements derogatory to Mrs. Liccoln. It was understood that this man had made these ascertions from scular knowledge, but when closely questioned by Mr. Kennedy, he confessed that his information in the matter was derived exclusively from the Southern papers.
He claims to be a loyal and patriotic citizen, but at the same time says that while unduly excited from stimulants he may have used wnbecoming and indecorous language toward resident Lincoln and his lady. His partner, he says, has gone South and entered into the corrider of the Secessionists, which fact he considers good grounds for dissolving the partnership. After a severe reprimand from the General Superintendent and a caution to while the Illineis troops are expecting an attack, they are preparing for it with great industry and skill. To-day probably we shall hear that Bird's Point is securely occupied by a Missouri regiment; that Col. McArthur's regiment at Caseyville has been added to the Cairo force; that big guns are mounted on the Missouri as well as on the Illinois shore; and that Gen. come along at his earliest convenience, and take Cairo if he can. Our troops there are in good spirits, under efficient discipline, well armed, well fed, comfortably lodged, and more than all, are eager for a chance to do their country service. Gen. Prentiss, their commander, is fully aware of the resibility of his position and will, we confident, leave nothing undone to make his camp secure against attack, or ment of Pillows, each with an army of paliens at his heals.

They ask us in the profoundest amazement, what we of the Northwest are going to do, now that our great southern market for bread-stuffs is cut off? We reply that the whole their ports are hermetically sealed, if they refuse to allow their property to go by any different route to the factories of the United States, England, France and Germany? The necessities of other people to buy their cotton are not greater than their own necessity to sell it, and if they can worry through a season without selling, it is just possible that others can get along without buying. But one thing is exactly impossible. It is impossible for them to send a peund of anything from Charleston, Savannah, Mobile, or New Orleans on shipboard to any place on the map of the globe. The dilemma is before their, and for the present they can take their choice. Six months hence the control of the question may not be wholly in the hands of Jeff. Davis, or any of his vigilance committee.

He must be a man of nerve and character. To knew how to touch the most powerful springs of the human mind; to throw teas of thousands in the jaws of the cannon; to take on himself the responsibility of life and death, not only of the army but of a whole nation,—requires nerve, character and self-reliance. The want of science, or of experience may be a myenasted by advice; but there is no remedy for weakness of character. Once adopting a certain plan he must act unhesitatingly; no doubtful reports, no dispiriting news, no dissatisfaction of subordinates, should change it. The greater the obstacles, the more embersualing the details, the firmer and quieter should be the Commander-in-Chief. On the other hand, too much of stubborness and sali-will on his part, when the circumstances are totally changed, would be perilous. Hence, the plan being adopted, the battle must be fought resolutely; but if some unforcem and insuranountable circumstances do not permit his execution, he must retreat and make new plans and new combinations. But nothing is more dangeroun in war than all measure; and these are always the faults of persents of weak character. WASHINSTON, Saturday, May 20, 1861.
This city hist two days to its calender of April and May which it will long remember.
The first was Sunday, April 21st, written do wn as "the dark Subbath." The other is Saturday, this day, which has been a day of mingled sorrow, grandenr, alarm and I may add, of indignation.

Bridge, but noue except troops were antewer to cross over.

These went over on a forced march, taking the route step on the bridge, lest the trampstep should injure it. They went at the rate of six miles an hour, and that, too, in the heat of the hottest day, probably, that we have yet had. But what was the joy of the city to learn, as we did by six o'clock, that all this fight, and disturbance of the funeral procession, and forced march, were occasioned by a little innocent finn, as the 7th New York Regiment intended, in a target shooting and a minic battle on the Heightst. This joy as mingled in many a mind with a sorrow and mimic battle on the Heights! This joy was mingled in many a mind with a sorrow and indignation at the folly of venturing on such an act, at such a time, without taking the pre-caution to keep the sentinels informed of what they were about to do. They should even have sent word to the city, especially if there was to be any artillery practice. The 7th is ordered to the city, it is said—I hope for a reprimand. THE IBISH REGIMENT.

tutions of a people wan have absorbed so many thousands of the best population of that country.

[From the Cologne Gazette of May 5.]

It is not to be denied that, from a military point of view, the robeis in the United States have just now several great advantages over the government. They have an ably organized army, which has been trained for several months, and which must needs fight and plunder in order to be kept together; while the government are oppose to their attacks only raw and undisciplined troops. Moreover, as the war is to be carried on in the border slave states and in the southern ports, the government troops will suffer from the summer heats, which do not so much affect the secessionists. It is therefore quite possible that the first results will be in favor of the robels.

We have, however, no doubt that intelligence and enduring strength are on the side of the government, and that victory cannot but remain with the loyal side. We ludge from the recent news that the people of the north have at last learned to recognize and value justly the objects and power of the rebels, who threaten their national cristence; and we believe that the north is now determined never to by down its arms till the seveded states, and the political power of alvery, which has grown to so mischievous a strangth, is destroyed. Twenty three millions of people, strengthened by all the arts of

If this Brigade were going for the only for 30 days, service, then the severate the tones of the hindred dollars estimate would be none too high, for every article specified as an essential, but they are going for the entire war, and tay a going for the entire war, and tay should be provided for with a sincere care for their health, comfort and efficiency. I example the believe that the Council will appropriate a liberal sum. Every member with whem I have conversed has manifested a commandable displaced has manifested a commandable displaced has manifested a commandable displaced has a speedy appropriation will be made that will reflect credit upon in the generous and patriotic sentiments of our people. The only fault (if it be one) is the tardiness of the Council's action, when no time should be lost. It will take at least from ten to fitted may to provide the uniform after the same is ordered by the appropriation; and hence the necessity of prompt action.

The London Sanday Times of the 19th of May, has the following:

A Parisian correspondent writes to say the civil war news from the American continent has brought to Paris a large number of Americans who were in Italy, Germany, and other countries of the Old World. These travelers are all proceeding homeward as fast as possible. The resources of most Americans abroad depend on commerce: they therefore find themselves, at the present moment, in a very unpleasant position—not knowing, in fact, what may be the results of the civil war as regards financial interests. Nearly all Americans who were living in Paris have already left to look after their interests; or, it may be, to take part in the conflict. Of late years they have been the best of customers to hotel keepers on the continent of Europa, spending their money with a freedom which once made the traveling Englishman so popular abroad. That reputation, however, we have long since lost.

lega, makes the following suggestions to officers and soldiers:

I see it recommended by some of the newpapers, that soldiers should bathe daily as a necessary means of preserving health. Will you permit one of more than fifty years or perince in the medical profession, to suggest a more convenient and salutary maked of preserving health, by keeping up and of capitlary circulation so essential to health, by friction over the body daily-morning and evening, if convenient, with a salted cloth, and not having the water bath oftener than once in one or two weeks. The cloth is easily preserved by diplying a crash towel in a strong solution of sail and water, and allowing it to drain dry without winging. Thus prepared, it may be used as a rubefacient, a week or more before dipping again. This is also a good preventive of pasiculae, so apt to generate in camp life.
